Site Surveying Guide for Radar and Cameras: A How-To Guide for the Security Professional Mr Eddie R Hughes

This book is a layman's guide to site surveying for security radars and cameras. The guide has an overview of current radar and camera technology and the basics physics behind them. The book avoids, however, complex jargon and formulas. The tools of the trade and the pre-visit preparation are discussed in great detail. Useful "rules of thumb" are and references provided as well. The reader will be assured they have a sufficient knowledge base to perform site surveys for pulsed, pulsed Doppler, FMCW, and Pulse Compression security radar systems. In addition, they will be able to also perform quality recommendations for CCTV, thermal (both cooled and uncooled), and laser illuminated cameras. This is a must-have guide for security companys, prime contractors and security professionals. Software (Excel spreadsheets) can be downloaded after purchase from www.deepseapublishing.com to further assist the reader.
