A Deadly Game (Part 1) Skai High Productions

Sasha has it all, a nice home, a luxury car, clothes, jewels, money and a man that supplies it all. So there is no need in asking, what more could a girl ask for, right?

Wrong.

Caught up in her selfish and promiscuous ways, Sasha inflicts pain on everyone in her circle, including the man that loves her, Quamae. Unable to control the things in her path, Sasha is forced to watch her world crumble beneath her feet. When her loyalty is put to the test, which will she choose? The man she's grown to love or the lifestyle she's accustomed to? Will she allow betrayal, lies and lust keep her from what she's dreamed of or will love conquer all?

SNIPPET:

Before she could finish her sentence the butt of his nickel-plated nine was crushing the left side of her skull. He hit her three more times, but stopped when he saw blood leaking from her head. He didn't realize his anger had taken control over him until that very moment. He stopped and looked at her lifeless body. He panicked. She didn't move, blink, nothing. He ran quickly upstairs, changed his clothes, packed his money and clothes, removed the security tapes and fled the scene.

An hour had passed and Qua was long gone. He didn't bother calling the police out of fear of being arrested, but he also knew that Carmen would be there soon enough. He heard their entire conversation while he stood to the door eavesdropping. He knew damn well he couldn't return to the house tonight or anytime soon for that matter. He decided to get a room and lay low for a while. On the other side of town Carmen had been calling Sasha's cell phone for the past half hour. Growing worried she called Qua's phone, but when he didn't answer she decided to call India. They met up and went to find Sasha. When they arrived at the house Qua's truck wasn't there. But Sasha's car was still in the driveway. They knocked on the door. No answer. They knocked again. There was still no answer.

"Don't you have a key?" India asked.

Carmen turned away from the door. "Good thinking. I just remembered where she keeps a spare key for emergencies."

She returned with the key and unlocked the door. India led the way.

She stopped in her tracks and let out a horrific scream. Carmen swung around.

"What's wrong?"

India pointed to the lifeless body on the floor as Carmen ran to her friend's side. "Call the police," she yelled.

India was paralyzed. She couldn't move or speak.

"India!" She screamed again.

"Call the police now."

She ran into the kitchen and grabbed the phone. The operator picked up.”911, what’s your emergency?”
